Publishing Your Document(4)

- Here's what you need to specify:
 - The publishing address specifies the location where documents are published (uploaded) at this site. If you are not sure what to enter, ask your ISP or system administrator.
 - * HTTP address of your home page: Specifies the complete address of your publishing home directory. This is the web address of the home page at your web site. Do not include a filename or subdirectory as part of the URL.
 - This URL must always begin with `http://`. In some cases, this URL is the same as the publishing address. If you are not sure what to enter, ask your ISP or system administrator, or else leave it blank.
